The Indolence of the Filipino

I. Summary
 The Indolence of the Filipino was published in La Solidaridad in Manila in 1890. This was written by Jose Rizal as a response to the accusation of Filipino indolence. Rizal admits that indolence among the Filipinos exists, but there could be numbers of reasons behind it. He traces its causes to factors such as the climate and social structure. He advises the Filipinos to stop being idle and to work hard. He suggests that the Filipinos have been engaged in economic activities such as agriculture and trade even before the arrival of Spaniards. In the end, Rizal summarizes the main causes of indolence to the limited training and education Filipino natives received and to the lack of national sentiment and unity among them. According to Rizal, education and liberty would be the cure to Filipino indolence.

II. Spiced Points
 *Indolence, instead of holding it to be the cause of the backwardness and the trouble, we regard it as the effect of the trouble and the backwardness, by fostering the development of a lamentable condition.
 *Man should not be satisfied with the position of another man, his object is to seek happiness for himself and his kind by traveling along the road of progress and perfection.
 *Man works for an object. Remove the object and you reduce him to nothing.
 *Man is his self-esteem. Take it away from him and he is a corpse, and he has been reborn in a corpse and encounter only worms.
 *Jose Rizal's The Indolence of the Filipino is a self-defense against the hatred and charges of the oppressors who condemn the Filipino as inert, unresponsive and useless. It argues on what those people say that Filipino workers are unskilled, untrained, irresponsible, inefficient, misused men, idle, and unproductive with the highest value of work. It's not a correct reason or basis for them to conclude that Filipinos are indolent. Filipino workers in fact were working people who are very dedicated with their work. It is more right to say that indolence of Filipinos is the effect, not the cause, of Philippine backwardness. They may sometimes treat the Filipino made men as slaves. They enslaved the land of Filipinos and work for their own self without benefiting them. They made Filipino believe that rich people have no place in heaven and poor's heart, making them give more offerings, because of wrong doctrines of the church, to the extent of leaving nothing for them. They introduce miracles that made Filipinos
